| 5. | At Karavalday Island (N 59-59, E 29-07), a destroyer was sighted proceeding on a northerly course. The destroyers (sic) had a flat cruiser stern, two masts, one stack, a number of radar antennas on the after mast, and guns or turrets on the foredeck. Ten MTBs left the shore above Karavalday lighthouse at high speed and practiced attacks against the destroyers. They fired green flares during the attack and turned off to the side when they approached the larger vessels. | |
